Grammar: (Modal verbs of Desirability, Obligation and Necessity)

"Don't Need to Do—Not Necessary, but Possible."

*Use the negative form of "need to" to express that something isn't necessary, but possible. At times, English speakers use "don't need to" to express that they don't expect someone to do something.

Examples:

- You don't need to come to the meeting next week.
- He doesn't need to worry about his grades. He's a great student.

"Shouldn't"

*Use the negative form of "should" to express that something is undesirable or unacceptable.

Examples:

- You shouldn't stay up too late. You have to be up early tomorrow.
- You shouldn't keep the lights on if you are going to be away from home.

"Have to"

We use (have to) to indicate that something is (Obligatory), especially with law.

Examples:

- If you want to travel to the UK, you have to get a passport.
- In Oman, children attend school from grade one until grade twelve.

"Need to"

We use (need to) to indicate that an action is (Necessary).

Examples:

- If you want to get good marks, you need to study hard.
- If you want to get a promotion, you need to work harder.

"Mustn't"

We use (mustn't) to indicate that an action is (Prohibited).

Examples:

- When you observe fasting, you shouldn't eat or drink until sunset.
- You mustn't trespass onto private property.

"Ought to"

We use (ought to) to indicate that an action is (Desirable or acceptable).

Examples:

- You ought to consider incorporating a balanced diet for overall well-being.
- You ought to show gratitude for the support you receive from others.

Put in 'mustn't' or 'don't / doesn't have to':

1. We have a lot of work tomorrow. You _____ be late.
2. You _____ tell anyone what I just told you. It's a secret.
3. The museum is free. You _____ pay to get in.
4. Children _____ tell lies. It's very naughty.
5. Ali's a millionaire. He _____ go to work.
6. I _____ do my washing because my mother does it for me.

Grammar: (Infinitives and Gerunds)

When using gerunds followed by infinitives, it typically implies that one action follows another. Here are some examples:

1. "I enjoy swimming." (gerund)
2. "I want to swim." (infinitive)
3. "I enjoy swimming to stay fit." (gerund + infinitive)
4. "He started laughing when he saw the joke." (gerund + infinitive)
5. "She hates waking up early to go to work." (gerund + infinitive)
6. "They love going out to eat sushi." (gerund + infinitive)

In these sentences, the gerunds (swimming, laughing, waking up, going out) are used to indicate an action, while the infinitives (to swim, to go, to eat) show the purpose or intention behind the action.

(Adjectives) can indeed collocate with gerunds and infinitives in various contexts. Here are some examples:

1. "She is afraid of swimming in deep water." (gerund)
2. "He is interested in learning new languages." (gerund)
3. "They are capable of solving complex problems." (gerund)
4. "She is happy to help you with your project." (infinitive)
5. "He is eager to start his new job." (infinitive)
6. "They are reluctant to accept the offer." (infinitive)

In these sentences, adjectives such as "afraid," "interested," "capable," "happy," "eager," and "reluctant" are used to describe the subject's feelings or attitudes towards the actions expressed by the gerunds or infinitives.

(Nouns) can also be followed by infinitives to indicate purposes, intentions, or desires related to the noun. Here are some examples:

1. "Her goal is to become a doctor." (The noun "goal" is followed by the infinitive "to become.")
2. "His dream is to travel the world." (The noun "dream" is followed by the infinitive "to travel.")
3. "Their plan is to start a business." (The noun "plan" is followed by the infinitive "to start.")
4. "My wish is to learn how to play the piano." (The noun "wish" is followed by the infinitive "to learn.")
5. "Our objective is to improve customer satisfaction." (The noun "objective" is followed by the infinitive "to improve.")
6. "His intention is to study abroad." (The noun "intention" is followed by the infinitive "to study.")

In these examples, the infinitives (to become, to travel, to start, to learn, to improve, to study) express the purpose, intention, or desire associated with the nouns (goal, dream, plan, wish, objective, intention).

(Non-Exhaustive list) of verbs that are typically followed by gerunds:

(Acknowledge, admit, advise, allow, anticipate, appreciate, avoid, celebrate, confess, consider, defend, delay, detest, discuss, dislike, dread, endure, enjoy, escape, evade, explain, , fancy, fear, feel like, finish, forgive, give up, keep, mention, mind, miss, postpone, practice, recommend, regret, remember, resent, resist, resume, risk, suggest, tolerate, understand.)

These verbs are often followed by (a noun form of a verb ending in -ing, which is the gerund). For example, “I enjoy running” or “She avoids eating late”.

(Non-Exhaustive list) of verbs that are typically followed by infinitives:

Arrange, ask, choose, care, claim, decide, demand, deserve, expect, fail, get, happen, hesitate, hope, intend, learn, manage, offer, plan, prepare, pretend, promise, refused, seem, swear, tend, threaten, undertake, wait, want, wish, would like, yearn.

These verbs are often followed by (the base form of another verb (the infinitive)), sometimes with “to”.

For example, “I want to eat” or “She can begin to write.”

(Non-Exhaustive list) of verbs that are typically followed by both infinitives or gerunds:

Begin, continue, hate, like, love, prefer, start.

These verbs can be followed by (either a gerund or an infinitive). For example, “I like reading” and “I like to read” are both correct. However, the meaning can change with some verbs when using a gerund or an infinitive:

Remember: “I remembered locking the door” (the action was completed) vs. “I remembered to lock the door” (the action was yet to be completed).

Stop: “He stopped smoking” (he quit smoking) vs. “He stopped to smoke” (he paused another action to smoke).

Try: “I tried speaking Arabic” (I made an attempt at speaking Arabic) vs. “I tried to speak Arabic” (I made an effort to speak Arabic, implying the outcome is not certain).

Exercises:

Complete the sentences. Choose from these verbs (in the correct form):

answer apply forget lose make pay read interrupt listen travel live try

1. Ex. He tried to avoid answering my question.

(Grammar: Used to + Infinitive)

- We use “used to + infinitive” to talk about a past situation that is no longer true. It indicates that there was a repeated action or state in the past which has now changed.

Examples:

- She used to be a long-distance runner when she was younger. (Affirmative)
- I didn't use to sleep very well, but then I started doing yoga, and it really helps. (Negative)
- Did you use to come here as a child? (Interrogative)

We also use used to ... for things that were true, but are not true anymore:

- This building is now a furniture shop. It used to be a cinema.
- I used to think Saif was unfriendly, but now I realise he's a very nice person.
- I used to have a very long hair when I was a child.

Note: (Do not confuse I used to do and I am used to doing (see Unit 61). The structures and meanings are different):

- I used to travel alone. (= I travelled alone in the past, but I no longer travel alone.)
- I am used to travelling alone. (= I travel alone, and it's not a problem for me because I've travelled alone for some time.)
- I used to go to school by bus. (= I went to school by bus in the past, but no longer go by bus)
- I am used to going to school by bus. (= I am accustomed to go to school by bus).

(Informative Writing)

What is an Informative Essay?

- An informative essay explains a (topic, process, or concept).
- It provides factual information (without expressing the author's opinion or perspective).
- Informative essays can take various forms, such as explaining how a system works, analyzing data, summarizing an event, comparing subjects, or providing step-by-step instructions.

(Structure of an Informative Essay)

Introduction:

- Start with an engaging opening statement, such as a surprising fact or statistic.
- Include a thesis statement that concisely summarizes the essay's focus.
- Mention the main points you'll discuss in the body paragraphs.

Body:

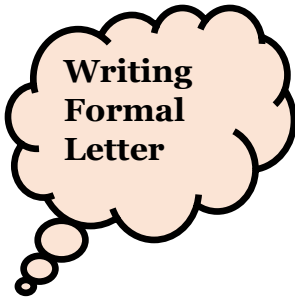

- The body paragraphs make up the bulk of the essay.
- Each paragraph should focus on one topic related to your thesis.
- Present facts, statistics, and relevant details to support your thesis.
- If explaining a process, dedicate a paragraph to each step.
- For comparative essays, summarize each subject thoroughly.

Conclusion:

- Summarize the main points discussed in the body paragraphs.
- Reiterate your thesis statement (not necessarily using the same words).
- Provide closure for the reader.
